sustainable flooring for a sustainable future

Our world is under pressure

World population 9.7 billion by 2050

A large pile of discarded fabric scraps and textile waste. The pile contains various colors including purple, beige, blue, green, and orange. There are different textures visible, such as woven fabrics, knitted materials, and some synthetic-looking pieces. Some scraps have labels, one of which clearly says "UNDERLAY". The overall appearance is one of a large volume of discarded material.
